

Downtown Burlington Commercial National Historic District

Downtown Burlington Commercial Walking Tour

Located from the riverfront to the 800 block of Jefferson St and between Columbia and Market Sts

Named to the National Register of Historic Places in 2015, this comprehensive district consists of 108 key buildings that span more than a century of Burlington's commercial development. From the core of the original city near the riverfront and stretching west along Jefferson, the principal business street, these buildings represent Burlington's rise and prominence as a commercial center from the 1860s through the 1960s and beyond. Shaped by the topography of the Hawkeye Creek valley between the bluffs, the historic downtown is punctuated by a unique "steeplescape" that draws comparisons to European river cities. You'll find a wealth of architectural gems, from Italianate to High Victorian to Art Deco, unmatched by any city its size. In recent years, many buildings have been carefully restored, and additional restoration and redevelopment continues.

Farmers & Merchants Bank & Trust

221 - 223 Jefferson 1912
 Built as the Iowa State Savings bank, it was Burlington's tallest building. The bank closed in 1932, but the site's banking tradition continued when the Farmers and Merchants moved here.

The Burlington Apartments

206 N 3rd St 1911
 This fireproof building was built for Hotel Burlington. Rising seven stories high, it was the city's first tall building and each of its 125 rooms had running water and a telephone.

Capitol Theater

211 N 3rd St 1937
 Designed in an Art Deco style that flourished between the two world wars, the theater facade was constructed of terra cotta. After sitting empty for 37 years, the renovations in 2012 restored much of its former glory.

Hedge Block

401 - 407 Jefferson 1881
 This four-story, stone-fronted business block was built with four separate storefronts. Its Charles Dunham design is indicative of the highly ornamented style of the day.

Buettner Furniture and Carpet Company

411 Jefferson 1875, 1914
 The current classical appearance of the building dates back to a significant remodel that took place around 1914 for the Buettner Furniture and Carpet Company, a family-run business characterized as one of the most up-to-date businesses in the west.

Lauer Building

423 Jefferson 1867
 This two-story brick building was originally occupied by Hamm and Mathes Grocery store and has housed many businesses over the years, including a clothing store and the Robinson Drug Company.

Central Fire Station

412 - 422 Valley St 1907
 Originally described as "French Romanesque," this two-story brick building was built to house the Police and Fire Departments.

Ella Carpenter Block

515 - 517 Jefferson 1882
 The block was built by Ella Carpenter, the widow of a jeweler. The block has housed a variety of businesses over the years, including the Hawk-Eye Tin shop, a flour and feed store, and Mailandt Tailoring.

Nancy Neafie Park

Jefferson & N 6th Streets 1996
 This small "pocket park" was dedicated in memory of the first woman mayor of Burlington.

Ganz Building

613 - 615 Jefferson 1873
 The current structure was built by Andreas Ganz after the previous building was destroyed by a fire. For many years, a saloon or restaurant has operated in both storefronts.

Joy Planing Mill

800 Jefferson 1865
 The core of this building was built for a planing mill business using limestone that was quarried nearby. The Embalming and Burial Case Company once manufactured their "celebrated metallic caskets" in this building.

Scotten Building

716 - 722 Jefferson 1915
 This building's construction marked the development of the west section of Jefferson Street with additional improvements as well as street lighting.

Nees-Rolf Building

700 - 702 Jefferson 1904
 Nees operated his harness business in the 700 half of the building. In the 702 half, Rolf operated his flour and feed store business.

Forney & Mellinger Block

512 & 522 Jefferson 1883
 The two "bookend" buildings were built by James Forney and Samuel Mellinger. Both buildings had multiple uses, including an overall factory, sleeping rooms and usage by fraternal organizations.

Gregg Building / Masonic Temple

420 - 422 Jefferson 1884
 The building was designed by Burlington architect Charles A. Dunham. The upper floors housed numerous Masonic organizations over the years.

John Boesch Company

412 - 418 Jefferson 1906
 This building was built as an expansion of the John Boesch Company, who operated in the building to the west. The boot and shoe store of Hertzler & Boesch operated in the east storefront.

Kresge Building

318 - 322 Jefferson 1933
 The S.S. Kresge Company (now K-Mart) operated in the building until the early 1960s. Their $40,000 investment was a testament to their faith in the city's future at a time of general cutbacks. This building was part of "Dime Store Row."

Tama Building

300 - 304 Jefferson 1896
 The building was built on the site of the old Barrett House, which was the most renowned hotel in this region. After spectacular fires, the Tama Building has been substantially rebuilt three times.

J.S. Schramm Company

218 Jefferson 1884
 The J.S. Schramm company initially started as a grocery and dry goods store by John S. Schramm. Andre Shoe Company owned and operated a shoe store and factory in this building before trading buildings with the Schramm Company in 1884.

David Building

210 Jefferson 1870
 John S. David purchased this land from the U.S. government in 1845 and built the present building 25 years later.

John H. Witte & Sons Drug Store

206 - 208 Jefferson 1885
 The Witte Drug Store was the largest pharmacy in Burlington. A large soda fountain and lunch counter made "Meet me at Witte's" a popular expression for generations.

German American Savings Bank

200 - 204 Jefferson 1874
 The German American Savings Bank operated until 1932, when the Depression forced it into receivership. Reorganized in 1933, the First National Bank remained on this site until 1974.
